Сводка

As a Brand Associate in Oncology (RLT), you will play a key role in executing and shaping the brand strategy at a local level, ensuring strong alignment between global strategy and local market needs.

You will drive tactical execution, generate actionable insights from the market, and collaborate closely with cross-functional teams to deliver impactful initiatives that improve patient access and adoption.

About the Role

#LI-Hybrid

Location: Santiago, Chile

This role is based in Chile. Novartis is unable to offer relocation support for this role: please only apply if this location is accessible for you.

Key responsibilities:

- Execute and monitor the brand's tactical plan, ensuring delivery on time, in quality, and in full compliance
- Implement campaigns, promotional materials, and engagement activities in coordination with internal teams and agencies
- Track KPIs and performance of brand initiatives, identifying gaps and proposing improvements
- Generate actionable insights from field interactions (HCPs, centers, stakeholders) and translate them into business opportunities
- Analyze market trends, competitor dynamics, and product performance to support decision-making
- Collaborate cross-functionally with Medical, Access, Sales, Supply, Finance, Regulatory, and other stakeholders
- Actively contribute to Brand Team discussions, ensuring alignment and effective execution
- Support the connection between global strategy and local implementation

Essential Requirements:

- Strong proactive mindset with high ownership and ability to drive initiatives independently
- Structured thinking with strong business orientation and prioritization skills
- Proven ability to execute projects and coordinate multiple stakeholders effectively
- Strong communication and influencing skills with internal stakeholders
- Analytical mindset with ability to interpret data and generate insights
- Experience in marketing, commercial, or related functions (pharma or healthcare preferred)
- Fluent in English

Desirable Requirements:

- Knowledge of oncology, radioligand therapy (RLT), or related therapeutic areas
- Experience in brand planning, segmentation, or strategic marketing
