Relocation Support: This role is based in Munich, Germany. Novartis is unable to offer relocation support: please only apply if accessible.

What if you could redefine how a global organization understands talent? As Head of Skills, you will shape the future of how skills power careers, learning, and workforce transformation at Novartis. This is a rare opportunity to lead an enterprise-wide skills agenda—bringing together strategy, data, and emerging technologies to build a more agile, inclusive, and future-ready workforce. Working at the intersection of talent, learning, and innovation, you will influence senior leaders and turn cutting-edge market insights into scalable, human-centered solutions that truly impact how people grow and thrive.

About the Role

Key Responsibilities

- Define and lead the enterprise skills strategy, aligning governance, priorities, and operating model across Novartis
- Continuously scan external markets for skills trends, innovations, and regulatory developments shaping talent practices
- Influence senior stakeholders to embed skills-based approaches across talent, learning, and workforce decisions
- Establish and evolve enterprise standards for skills taxonomy, proficiency, assessment, and language
- Partner with Reward and Organization Development to shape job architecture and career frameworks
- Embed skills across the full talent lifecycle, including acquisition, learning, performance, and mobility
- Translate skills insights into actionable recommendations for workforce planning and capability development
- Shape enterprise use cases for Workday Skills Cloud and related skills-driven digital experiences
- Collaborate with technology teams to ensure responsible, ethical, and scalable skills solutions
- Lead responsible artificial intelligence practices, ensuring fairness, transparency, and inclusive skills design

Essential Requirements

- Extensive experience in talent management, organizational development, learning, or workforce transformation at global scale
- Deep expertise in skills-based talent practices, including taxonomies, job architecture, and career frameworks
- Strong understanding of human resources technology, including skills intelligence platforms and data-driven solutions
- Proven ability to influence senior stakeholders and drive enterprise-wide change across complex organizations
- Experience translating market trends and workforce data into strategic talent and capability decisions
- Demonstrated commitment to ethical, inclusive, and responsible use of artificial intelligence in talent practices

Benefits & Rewards

At Novartis, we're committed to reimagining medicine together - and rewarding the people who make it happen.

Expected Annual Base Salary Range for role: 108.200 - 162.400 EUR

The base salary offered is determined based on gender-neutral objectives, such as relevant skills, competencies and experience in accordance with the Novartis pay setting policy and upon joining Novartis will be reviewed periodically.

The rewards of being part of our team go far beyond base pay and incentives. We also offer a variety of competitive benefits in kind to help you thrive personally and professionally, such as insurance plans, retirement plans, wellbeing resources and global recognition programs. In addition, we provide flexible and hybrid working options, where possible, and minimum 14 weeks paid parental leave.

In addition to your base salary, you may be eligible for a performance-based bonus depending on certain performance parameters. Long-term equity awards granted at group level may also be part of your package. Further details will be provided during the application process.
